DOCUMENTED REVENUE TRAJECTORY

$180,000–$250,000 year two revenue — 150 units under management · 8–12% management fee · Caribbean landlord network · no property ownership required

The Property Management Business Model

You collect 8–12% of every rent payment. Every month. Without owning a single property.

Property management is one of the purest recurring income businesses available to an experienced Caribbean professional. You charge 8–12% of monthly rent for managing each unit — handling tenant placement, rent collection, maintenance coordination, owner reporting, and legal compliance. The property owner keeps the asset. You keep the management fee. Every month. Without owning a single brick.

$180K+

Year two revenue — 150 units under management · $1,200 avg monthly rent · 10% management fee · Caribbean landlord network

The Property Management Revenue Model

Units Managed	Avg Monthly Rent	Management Fee	Monthly Revenue
10 units	$1,200	10%	$1,200
25 units	$1,200	10%	$3,000
50 units	$1,200	10%	$6,000
100 units	$1,200	10%	$12,000
150 units	$1,200	10%	$18,000
150 units + leasing fees	$1,200	10% + 1mo/placement	$21,000–$24,000

What the Service Actually Includes

1Tenant Placement and Screening

Marketing vacant units, screening applicants, running credit and background checks, preparing leases. One-time leasing fee: 50–100% of first month's rent. At $1,200 average rent and 20 placements per year: $12,000–$24,000 in leasing fees alone on top of management revenue.

2Rent Collection and Owner Distributions

Collecting rent on the 1st, chasing late payments, distributing owner proceeds on the 15th with a detailed statement. Your trust account holds tenant deposits and rent proceeds separately from operating funds — this is a legal requirement in most states. Remote OS Pro handles all of this automatically.

3Maintenance Coordination

Receiving maintenance requests, dispatching vendors, overseeing repairs, approving invoices under your authority limit (typically $300–$500 without owner approval). Your vendor network — plumbers, electricians, HVAC — is a competitive differentiator. Caribbean vendors who serve Caribbean properties at fair rates make your management more reliable and more profitable.

4Compliance and Legal Documentation

Lease renewals, annual inspection reports, security deposit accounting, eviction processing when required. In most states a property manager handles the documentation; the attorney handles the court appearance if eviction proceeds. Your knowledge of tenant law protects both the owner and the tenant — and protects you from liability.

What makes property management recurring

Once a unit is under management, revenue flows every month without re-selling the service. A 150-unit portfolio at $18,000/month in management fees is $216,000/year in recurring revenue — with no inventory, no materials cost, and no physical labor.

What makes it grow

Every Caribbean landlord you serve refers their Caribbean landlord friends. Every property you manage well becomes a reference property. The Caribbean community invests in real estate at high rates — and they are actively looking for a Caribbean property manager they can trust.

CARIBBEANLEGACYPRINCIPLE

Barbados has maintained some of the most stable property markets in the Caribbean for over 200 years — built on clear title systems, professional management, and community investment in property as a generational wealth vehicle. Caribbean families abroad understand that property is wealth. Your property management business helps them protect and grow it.

Licensing, Structure and Launch

What licenses you need, how to structure the business, and how to launch professionally.

Property management licensing requirements vary significantly by state. Some states require a real estate broker license to manage properties for third-party owners for compensation. Others have a dedicated property manager license. A small number of states have no licensing requirement at all. Understanding your state's requirements before you take your first client is non-negotiable.

1Real Estate Broker License — States That Require It

States including California, Florida, Texas, New York, and Georgia require a real estate broker license to manage properties for third-party owners. If you do not hold a broker license, you have two options: obtain one (typically requires 2–4 years of sales experience plus an exam) or operate under a licensed broker as a property manager. Check your state's real estate commission website for exact requirements.

2Property Manager License — States With Dedicated Licensing

Some states have a dedicated property manager certification or license separate from the broker license. These are typically less demanding than the full broker route and specifically designed for property managers. Check: propertymanagerlicensing.com for state-by-state requirements.

3LLC and Trust Account Setup

Form Caribbean Property Management LLC in your state. Open a dedicated property management trust account — separate from your operating account — for holding tenant security deposits and rent proceeds. This is a legal requirement in all states that require licensing. Your bank can set this up as a dedicated trust or escrow account.

4Errors and Omissions Insurance

E&O; insurance protects you from claims arising from property management errors — a missed lease renewal, a maintenance oversight, a tenant placement mistake. Cost: $1,500–$3,000/year. Required by most property owners before they will sign a management agreement with you.

YOUR BUSINESS WEBSITE

A professional property management website — showing your managed portfolio, tenant portal access, owner reporting dashboard, and a property owner inquiry form — converts Caribbean landlords who are tired of self-managing into long-term managed clients before you meet them in person. Build it fast with Lovable — an AI site builder where you describe what you want and it builds a professional site in minutes. caribstream.io/lovable

Your Caribbean Community Client Base

Caribbean families invest in real estate at higher rates than almost any other diaspora community.

First-generation Caribbean immigrants who bought homes in the 1970s, 1980s, and 1990s are now in their 60s, 70s, and 80s. Many own multiple properties accumulated over decades of work and saving. Many are at the stage of life where they want the income from their properties without the management burden. They have been self-managing for years — and they are exhausted by it. You are the solution they have been waiting for.

Finding Caribbean Landlord Clients

1

Caribbean Facebook Groups and WhatsApp Networks

Post in every Caribbean community group in your city: 'Are you a Caribbean property owner tired of self-managing your rental units? Caribbean Property Management — professional management from a Caribbean professional who understands our community. First month management fee waived for new clients.' One post in a group of 5,000 members generates 10–20 serious inquiries within 48 hours.

Caribbean Churches and Community Organizations

Elderly Caribbean landlords who are struggling with self-management are concentrated in Caribbean churches. A trusted introduction from a pastor or community elder to 'the Caribbean property manager in our community' converts at a rate no advertising channel can match. Offer to present a 15-minute 'Property Management 101' workshop at a Caribbean senior center or church — you will leave with signed management agreements.

Caribbean Real Estate Agents

Real estate agents who sell investment properties to Caribbean buyers need a property manager to refer their clients to. A Caribbean agent who closes 10 investment property transactions per year is 10 automatic management referrals per year. Build relationships with 5 Caribbean real estate agents and your pipeline fills itself.

Estate and Probate Referrals

When a Caribbean property owner passes away, their estate often includes rental properties that heirs cannot or do not want to manage. Estate attorneys and probate courts frequently need a licensed property manager to maintain properties during estate settlement. One relationship with a probate attorney generates 3–5 management assignments per year — often for properties with no management agreement in place and immediate income need.

Your management agreement offer

First month management fee waived for new clients. 10% of monthly rent, collected on the 1st. Leasing fee: 50% of first month's rent per placement. 24-hour maintenance response guaranteed. Monthly owner statements with full transaction detail. Caribbean Property Management — Professional. Trusted. Community.

Your first 10 clients — the math

10 units at $1,200 avg rent at 10% = $1,200/month management. Plus 10 placements/year at $600 each = $6,000/year in leasing fees. Total year one at 10 units: $20,400. That baseline funds your Remote OS Pro subscription and your marketing for the next 50 units.

Building Your Vendor Network

Maintenance, repairs, emergency services — the relationships that make property management scalable.

Your vendor network is your operational backbone. Property management without reliable vendors is a liability. Property management with a tight, trusted vendor network is a competitive moat. Caribbean property owners who have been self-managing have horror stories about unreliable contractors who overcharged, delayed, and delivered poor quality. When you show up with a curated network of licensed, insured vendors who respond within 24 hours, the management agreement signs itself.

The Five Vendor Categories You Must Build

1	General Maintenance and Handyman Your go-to for unit turns, minor repairs, and cosmetic work. Needs to be fast, reliable, and fairly priced. Pay per job or negotiate a monthly retainer for exclusive preferred vendor status. Caribbean tradespeople in your community are your first call — they share your values and your reputation depends on theirs.
2	Licensed Plumber Emergency plumbing is the most common after-hours crisis in property management. A licensed plumber who answers at 11pm and charges fair emergency rates is worth more than any marketing budget. Build this relationship before you need it. Negotiate a preferred rate for your portfolio in exchange for consistent referral volume.
3	Licensed Electrician Electrical issues are second only to plumbing in property management frequency. Your Caribbean Electrical Solutions network — or a referral to another Caribbean licensed electrician — serves your portfolio. A licensed electrician who pulls permits on every job protects you from liability and protects the property owner from insurance complications.

HVAC Technician

Heating and cooling failures generate the highest volume of tenant complaints and the most urgent owner calls. A certified HVAC technician with a 24-hour emergency line who services your entire portfolio at preferred pricing is a non-negotiable vendor relationship.

5

Cleaning and Unit Turn Crew

Between tenants, every unit requires professional cleaning and a condition assessment. A reliable cleaning crew that turns units within 48 hours of vacancy reduces your days-vacant metric — directly protecting owner income and your management fee revenue.

VENDOR MANAGEMENT STANDARDS

Every vendor in your network must carry their own general liability insurance. Require a Certificate of Insurance before dispatching any vendor to a managed property. Vendors who are not insured create liability that flows back to your management company. This is non-negotiable. One uninsured vendor incident can end your business. Verify insurance annually and file certificates in Remote OS Pro automatically.

Scaling to 150+ Units

The first 10 units prove the system. The next 140 units prove the business.

Property management scales through systems, not through additional hours. The first 10 units under management require significant hands-on setup — onboarding clients, establishing vendor relationships, implementing rent collection, and learning the rhythm of each property. From 10 to 150 units, the additional work per unit decreases dramatically because the systems are already built. Remote OS Pro handles what would otherwise require a full-time administrator.

The Scaling Milestones

1	10 Units — Prove the System Every process documented. Vendor network established. Trust accounting functioning. Owner statements generating automatically. At 10 units your systems are proven. Every unit after 10 is incremental revenue with declining marginal effort.
2	25 Units — Hire Your First Part-Time Property Manager At 25 units, hire a part-time property manager to handle maintenance coordination and tenant communication. Pay: $18–$25/hour for 20 hours per week. You focus on new client acquisition and owner relationships. They handle the day-to-day. At $18,000/month in management fees at 25 units, the part-time hire is fully covered with margin to spare.
3	75 Units — Full-Time Property Manager and Leasing Agent One full-time property manager handling maintenance and tenant relations. One part-time leasing agent handling unit marketing and tenant placement. You focus exclusively on business development and owner relationships. At $9,000/month in management fees at 75 units, your overhead is covered and the business is profitable without your direct involvement in daily operations.

150 Units — Full Operating Business

Two property managers, one leasing specialist, one maintenance coordinator. $18,000/month in management fees plus $15,000–$20,000/year in leasing fees. Total revenue: $231,000–$236,000. You are the owner — not the operator. This is legacy income.

Units	Monthly Mgmt Revenue	Leasing Fees/Year	Total Annual Revenue
10 units	$1,200	$6,000	$20,400
25 units	$3,000	$12,000	$48,000
75 units	$9,000	$27,000	$135,000
150 units	$18,000	$45,000	$261,000
