

YOUNG BOSS TRASH CAN CLEANING GUIDE

HOW CARIBBEAN KIDS START
A CLEANING BUSINESS FROM SCRATCH

★ ★ ★
FOR KIDS
WITH BIG IDEAS
AND EVEN

INSIDE THIS GUIDE

What You'll Learn

Six chapters. Under $100 to start. Real recurring income.

1

Why Trash Can Cleaning Is the Perfect First Business

Nobody wants to do it. That's exactly why you should.

2

Your Equipment — Under $100 to Start

Everything you need and where to get it cheap

3

What to Charge and How to Get Your First Customers

Pricing that works, scripts that close

4

Building Your Route — The Recurring Income Engine

How 20 customers becomes $400 every two weeks automatically

5

Your Money — Profit, Reinvesting and Scaling

The numbers behind a real cleaning route

6

Growing Beyond the Bins

Upsells, add-ons and the full Young Boss product library

WE CLEAN IT. YOU LOVE IT.

This is the business nobody talks about because everyone assumes someone else is doing it. They are not. Trash cans sit dirty on every street in every neighborhood in every city where Caribbean families live abroad. That is your opportunity — and it costs less than $100 to start.

CHAPTER ONE

Why Trash Can Cleaning Is the Perfect First Business

Nobody wants to do it. That's your advantage.

Here is a business truth that most people miss: the best opportunities are not the ones that look glamorous. They are the ones that solve a real problem, that most people are too proud to touch, and that come back as recurring income every single month like clockwork.

Trash can cleaning is all three. Every home has at least one bin. Every bin gets dirty, smelly, and full of bacteria within weeks of being used. Nobody enjoys cleaning it. Most people never do. And when someone shows up and offers to handle it for them at a fair price — they say yes immediately and keep saying yes month after month.

$400+

Every two weeks from a route of just 20 customers

$10–$20 per bin · Takes 2–3 minutes per can · Pure service, pure profit

What Makes This the Perfect Caribbean Kid Business

Caribbean families understand hard work and service with pride. The trash can cleaning business is not glamorous but it is honest, it is real, and it pays well for the time you put in. A 12-year-old Caribbean kid in London, Toronto, or New York can run a route of 20 customers on a Saturday morning and have $200–$400 in their hands before lunch.

Why it works

Recurring income — same customers pay every 2–4 weeks. Low competition — almost nobody is doing this systematically. Low startup cost — under $100 all in. No special skills needed beyond showing up and doing the job right.

Why customers stay

Once a neighbor sees their bin go from disgusting to gleaming in three minutes, they never want to go back to dirty. Retention in this business is extremely high because the alternative is doing it themselves — and they won't.

YOUNG BOSS TRUTH

The people making the most money in service businesses are not the ones doing the most impressive work. They are the ones doing the work nobody else wants to do — consistently, professionally, and on time. That is the whole business.

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

The Cayman Islands built one of the world's strongest financial sectors from a small island with almost no natural resources — through discipline, consistency, and showing up. The same principles that built Grand Cayman are the same ones that build a cleaning route.

CHAPTER TWO

Your Equipment — Under $100 to Start

Everything you need. Nothing you don't.

The trash can cleaning business has one of the lowest startup costs of any business a young person can start. You need cleaning supplies, a water source, and a way to get to your customers. That is it. No equipment loan. No franchise fee. No lease.

Your Starter Kit

Item	Cost	Notes
Heavy-duty rubber gloves (2 pairs)	$8-$12	Dollar store or Amazon — buy two pairs, always have a backup
Long-handled scrub brush	$5-$10	Dollar Tree, Walmart — needs stiff bristles to get inside the bin
All-purpose cleaner concentrate	$8-$12	Pine-Sol, Simple Green, or Fabuloso — concentrated, dilute with water
Deodorizing spray	$5-$8	Key finishing touch — customers notice the fresh smell
Microfiber cloths (pack of 6)	$6-$10	For wiping down exterior lids and handles after cleaning
Spray bottle (2)	$3-$5	One for cleaner, one for deodorizer
Green apron or work clothes	$10-$15	Look professional from day one — it matters to customers

The Water Question

For most jobs you use the customer's outdoor hose. Ask permission when you book the job — almost every customer says yes because it saves them buying water. For routes where you're walking between houses on the same street, one outdoor connection at the first house can often serve 2-3 neighbouring bins. As your route grows, a small portable pressure washer ($60-$120) makes the job faster and allows you to work independently of the customer's water supply.

THE UPGRADE PATH

Start with a scrub brush and garden hose. After 10 customers, buy a small electric pressure washer. After 25 customers, invest in a portable water tank so you are completely independent and can run your route without relying on customer water access. Each upgrade makes the job faster and the business more professional.

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

Trinidad is home to the world's largest natural asphalt lake — Pitch Lake — which has been mined and exported for over 100 years. Caribbean people have always turned overlooked resources into global commerce. Your cleaning supplies are your resource. Use them well.

What to Charge and How to Get Your First Customers

Price it right. Say the right words. Get the yes.

Pricing in the trash can cleaning business is simple. Charge per bin, not per hour. Charging per hour creates questions — customers wonder what you're doing with your time. Charging per bin makes the value clear. They know exactly what they're paying for and what they're getting.

Pricing Guide

Service	Price	Notes
Single bin clean — one time	$15-$20	First visit, or one-off customers
Single bin — monthly recurring	$12-$15/ month	Slight discount for commitment — locks in recurring income
Two bins — monthly recurring	$20-$25/ month	Most households have 2 bins — bundle price incentivises both
First clean discount (new customers)	$10 first clean	Get them in the door — they see the result and sign up monthly
Commercial bins (restaurant, office)	$25-$40/ bin	Future upsell once your route is established

How to Get Your First 5 Customers

1

Start with your own street

Walk your street on bin day and look for the dirtiest, smelliest bins. Knock on those doors first. The problem is visible — your pitch writes itself. "Hi, I noticed your bin and I offer a professional cleaning service for $10 for the first clean. Takes about 3 minutes. Want me to show you what I can do right now?"

2

Nextdoor and local Facebook groups

"Hi neighbours — I'm a local young entrepreneur offering trash can cleaning from $12/month. Your bin sanitised and deodorised after every collection. DM me to book your first clean at $10." Post with a before/after photo if you have one. One post in a local Facebook group can generate 5–10 enquiries in 24 hours.

3

Caribbean community WhatsApp and Facebook groups

Your warmest audience. Caribbean parents in the diaspora appreciate a young person building something real. Post your service in every Caribbean community group in your city. The community will share it before you even ask.

4

Leave a door hanger after every job

After cleaning a bin, put a simple card on the two neighbouring houses: "Your neighbour just had their bin professionally cleaned by Young Boss. First clean $10 — DM [your number]." Neighbours talk. One customer becomes three.

5

Offer a free demo to one neighbour

Find the most respected person on your street — the one everyone knows. Offer to clean their bin for free. Do an exceptional job. Ask them to spread the word. That one free clean can build your entire first route.

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

Grenada is known as the Spice Isle — producing more nutmeg per square mile than anywhere else on earth. The whole island is less than 350 square kilometres. Your street is your spice isle. Work it fully before you expand.

Building Your Route — The Recurring Income Engine

One customer is a job. Twenty customers is a business.

The difference between doing odd jobs and running a real business is one word — recurring. A recurring customer pays you automatically, on a schedule, without you having to resell them every time. Your goal is to convert every one-time customer into a monthly recurring customer as fast as possible.

How a Route Works

A route is a group of customers in the same area who you clean on the same day, on the same schedule. Instead of driving across town for one bin, you clean 8–10 bins on the same street in the same two hours. That efficiency is where the money lives.

Route Size	Customers	Time	Monthly Income
Starter route	10 customers	2–3 hrs / visit	$120–$150/month
Growing route	20 customers	3–4 hrs / visit	$240–$300/month
Strong route	40 customers	5–6 hrs / visit	$480–$600/month
Full route (with helper)	60–80 customers	Full Saturday	$720–$1,200/month

Route Building Rules

- ✓ Always clean on the same day every month — customers plan around you
- ✓ Clean after bin collection day — bins are empty and easier to clean thoroughly
- ✓ Never skip a scheduled clean without notifying the customer the day before
- ✓ Keep customers geographically tight — never build a route that requires more than 15 minutes travel between stops
- ✓ Text customers the evening before as a reminder — it reduces cancellations and builds trust
- ✓ Accept payment by cash, Venmo, CashApp, or Zelle — make it easy to pay

THE RECURRING INCOME TRUTH

Once a customer is on your monthly route, you do not have to sell them again. They pay. You clean. Month after month. A route of 40 customers paying $12/month is $480 coming in automatically every single month — for work you can do in one Saturday morning. That is what recurring income looks like.

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

St. Vincent and the Grenadines spans 32 islands and cays — each one small, each one part of a larger whole. Your route works the same way. Each customer is small. Together they build something significant.

CHAPTER FIVE

Your Money — Profit, Reinvesting and Scaling

Know your numbers. Every. Single. Month.

The trash can cleaning business has almost no ongoing costs once you have your starter kit. Your cleaning supplies last for months. Your equipment lasts for years. Almost every dollar you earn after the first month is profit.

First Year Money Breakdown

Item	Amount	Notes
Starter kit — one time	– $65	Gloves, brush, cleaner, deodorizer, cloths
Cleaning supply refills (per month)	– $5-$10	Concentrate lasts a long time when diluted properly
Month 1 — 10 customers at $12	+ $120	First route, starter customers
Month 3 — 20 customers at $12	+ $240	Word of mouth growing the route
Month 6 — 35 customers at $12-$15	+ $420-$525	Strong route, some 2-bin households
Month 12 — 50 customers average	+ $600-$750	Route established, almost zero churn
Year 1 total revenue		From one Saturday per month

$3,500-
$5,000+

The 40/40/20 Rule

1

Save 40% — Equipment and business growth

This buys your pressure washer, then a portable water tank, then eventually a second route managed by a friend or sibling. Never touch this money for personal spending.

2

Keep 40% — Your earnings

Into a savings account. You earned it. Watch it grow. This is your financial foundation — money that belongs to you, working for you.

3

Reinvest 20% — Marketing and supplies

Door hangers, Facebook group posts, fresh cleaning supplies, a simple business card. Keep the pipeline of new customers flowing.

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

Montserrat rebuilt its economy from scratch after a volcanic eruption destroyed the capital in 1997. The Caribbean spirit does not wait for perfect conditions. It builds with what is available right now. Your bin and your brush are available right now.

CHAPTER SIX

The Neighborhood Service Empire

The bin is the door. These are the rooms inside.

Here is what most people miss about the trash can cleaning business. The bin is not the business. The bin is the introduction. Once a neighbor trusts you enough to pay you monthly to clean something they find disgusting — they will pay you for almost anything that saves them time, effort, or discomfort. You are already on their street. You already have their number. You already have their trust. That is the hardest part of any service business. You have already done it.

Every service below can be offered monthly on a recurring basis, one-time as needed, or both. You are not limited to one. Stack them on your existing route. Let each one fill the gap the others leave. And understand this — any one of these, taken seriously, can grow into a full-time commercial business that employs people and serves businesses, not just households.

The Young Boss Neighborhood Service Menu

The Young Boss Neighborhood Service Menu

Driveway and Patio Power Washing — $40-$120 per job

Same pressure washer you use for the bins. Driveways, patios, pathways, garden walls, garage floors. Offer it as a spring and summer seasonal add-on to every bin customer. One Saturday of driveway cleans on your existing route can add $300-$500 on top of your monthly bin income. Scales to commercial car parks, restaurant forecourts and office buildings as you grow.

Lawn Mowing and Garden Tidying — $20-$60 per visit

A push mower starts at $100-$150 on Facebook Marketplace. Offer basic lawn mowing, edge trimming, and leaf clearing. Recurring weekly or bi-weekly in summer. Your bin customers are your first lawn customers. One street of 8 lawns at $30 each is $240 in a morning. Grows naturally into a full landscaping business as equipment and clientele expand.

Bin Day Collection Service — $10-$20 per month per household

Take bins to the curb on collection day and bring them back in afterward. Perfect for elderly neighbors, busy parents, people who travel for work, and households where nobody is home on bin day. Pure service — no equipment, no product, no startup cost. Ten customers at $15/month is $150 in recurring income for 20 minutes of walking every two weeks.

Grocery and Laundry Pickup — $15-$30 per run

Pick up groceries or drop off and collect laundry for elderly neighbors, new parents, or busy professionals. Use a bicycle, scooter, or have your parent drive on your first runs. Apps like Instacart show this is a proven model — you're doing it locally with a personal touch. Your neighbors pay more for someone they know and trust than a stranger from an app.

Attic, Basement and Junk Removal — $50-$200 per job

Cobweb removal, basement clear-outs, attic tidying, hauling junk to the kerb before collection day. This is physical work that older homeowners cannot do themselves and happily pay someone reliable to handle. Charge by the hour ($20-$30/hr) or by the job. Grows into a full junk removal business with a van as you scale.

Holiday Pots and Pans Service — $50-$150 per event

This is the one nobody sees coming. Caribbean families cook for 20 people on Christmas, Easter, Mother's Day, Thanksgiving, and every community celebration. By the end of the night, nobody wants to touch the dutchie pot, the roasting pans, or the pile of dishes that took all day to fill. You show up after the meal, clean every pot, pan, and dish, wipe down the kitchen, and leave it spotless. Charge $75-$150 depending on the size of the gathering. Book in advance — holidays fill up. One Christmas weekend of 4 bookings at $100 each is $400 in two days. Pure service. No product cost. Spreads through the Caribbean community like wildfire because word of mouth at a family gathering is the best marketing in the world.

From Neighborhood Kid to Commercial Business

Every service you offer today is a full business tomorrow.

Here is what nobody tells young people about service businesses. The same skills, the same reputation, and the same work ethic that builds a residential route can be taken directly into commercial contracts worth ten times the money. A bin cleaning route of 50 homes earns $600/month. A commercial contract cleaning bins for a restaurant group, an office park, or a housing development earns $600 in a week.

Residential now

Neighbors. Families. One street at a time. Monthly recurring. Personal relationships. This is where you learn the business and build the reputation.

Commercial later

Restaurants. Office buildings. Housing estates. Schools. Recurring contracts. Higher volume. This is where the same skills become a real company.

The One Rule That Makes All of This Work

You are only limited by your imagination and your willingness to ask. Every service on this list starts with one question — "Would you like me to do that for you?" Most people say yes to a reliable, polite, young person who does good work. They have been waiting for someone to ask.

PRICING RULE — MONTHLY, ONE-TIME, OR AS NEEDED

Every service you offer can be structured three ways. Monthly recurring for regular customers who want consistency. One-time for customers who just need the job done once. As needed for customers who call you when the situation arises. Offer all three options. Let the customer choose. You make money from all three.

Your Service Pricing Quick Reference

Service	One-Time	Monthly	Notes
Bin cleaning	$15-$20	$12-$15	Your anchor service
Driveway power wash	$40-$120	Seasonal	Spring/summer add-on
Lawn mowing	$25-$60	$20-$50	Weekly or bi-weekly
Bin day collection	$5/visit	$10-$20	Zero equipment needed
Grocery/laundry pickup	$15-$30/ run	As needed	Perfect for elderly customers
Attic/basement/ junk	$50-$200	Seasonal	Charge by job or hour
Holiday pots and pans	$50-$150	Holiday seasons	Book Christmas in October
Full service bundle	—	$60-$120	3+ services, one customer

THE YOUNG BOSS SERIES — ALL GUIDES AT CARIBSTREAM.IO

Ready for Your Next Business?

The Young Boss series covers real evergreen businesses Caribbean kids can start abroad — real numbers, real steps, no hype. Every guide on Gumroad. All sales final. Instant PDF download.

Bounce House Guide

$17 · Weekend rental business

Market Cart Guide

$17 · Caribbean food cart business

Natural Goods Guide

$37 · Oils, soaps and candles

Neighborhood Services

You're reading it · $17

caribstream.io/shop

CARIBBEAN ISLAND FACT

Haiti became the first Black republic in the world in 1804 — built by people who refused to accept that their circumstances defined their ceiling. Caribbean resilience is not a phrase. It is a history. You carry it. Now build something with it.

YOU FINISHED THE GUIDE.

Clean It. Charge It. Stack It.

The bins are on every street. The customers are right outside your door. The only thing between you and your first $120 this month is showing up.

YOUR FIRST WEEK ACTION PLAN

1

Buy your starter kit this week

Gloves, scrub brush, cleaner, deodorizer. Under $70. Dollar Tree and Amazon have everything you need.

2

Knock on 5 doors on your street this weekend

Offer the first clean for $10. Show them what clean looks like. Get 3 monthly customers from 5 doors. That's $36/month locked in from one afternoon.

3

Post in one local Facebook group today

"Young entrepreneur offering trash can cleaning from $12/month. First clean $10. DM to book." Add your neighbourhood name. Watch what happens.

MORE YOUNG BOSS GUIDES AT

CaribStream.io

Caribbean children abroad. Building wealth. Keeping roots.

© 2026 CaribStream.io · Diamond Media Publishing LLC · All rights reserved