$525–$750 daily revenue · post-Christmas peak fills your calendar · referral-driven growth

The Business and the Numbers

Every household with a new TV is a potential booking. The market never slows down.

Television sales in the US exceed 40 million units per year. Every one of those televisions needs to go somewhere — and an increasing number of Caribbean homeowners want theirs on the wall, not on a stand. The TV mounting business runs year-round with two predictable peaks: the post-Christmas unboxing season in January and the summer move-in season when Caribbean families move homes and need every TV remounted. The business is simple, the demand is constant, and a professional who does it right generates referrals from every single job.

Peak seasons to prepare for

January — post-Christmas TV unboxing. Every Caribbean family that received a new TV for Christmas needs it mounted in the first two weeks of January. Post one targeted social media push the week after Christmas and watch your inbox fill. Summer — move-in season. Caribbean families moving to new homes need every TV remounted. Market your remount service specifically to Caribbean moving companies in May and June.

What drives the referral rate so high

TV mounting is the most visible home installation service that exists. When a Caribbean family has guests and the 75-inch OLED is perfectly level on the wall with no visible cables, everyone in the room asks who did it. You leave a business card on the coffee table under every mounted TV. That card generates 1–3 direct bookings per job.

CARIBBEAN EARNER PRINCIPLE

Antigua hosts one of the Caribbean's largest annual sailing regattas — attracting competitors from over 60 countries to one tiny island. Small operation. Global reputation. Your TV mounting business builds the same way — one perfectly mounted television at a time, in one Caribbean household at a time, until your name is the first one every Caribbean homeowner in your city mentions when someone asks who to call.

Tools, Technique, and What Not to Skip

The stud finder, the level, and the cable management that separates pros from handymen.

A TV falling off a wall damages the television, damages the wall, and ends your reputation simultaneously. The professional reputation you are building is based entirely on the confidence that clients have that their television is securely and perfectly mounted. Every tool in your kit, every step in your process, and every quality check you perform exists to protect that confidence.

1

The Stud Finder — Non-Negotiable First Step

Every TV mount must be anchored to wall studs or to a properly rated wall anchor system designed for the TV's weight. A standard 65-inch TV weighs 55–75 pounds. The mount adds 5–15 pounds. Studs must bear this load. Use a magnetic stud finder ($25–$40) to locate studs before marking anything. Confirm with a second pass. Mark both edges of the stud. Center your mounting holes between both edge marks. Never guess on stud location.

2

The Level — Your Professional Signature

A television that is 2 degrees off level is immediately visible to every person who enters the room. It bothers the client every time they watch TV and they tell every person they know who mounted it. Use a 48-inch level for large TVs — not a phone app, not a small torpedo level. Place the level against the mounted bracket before drilling any second holes. Adjust until the bubble is perfectly centered. Then drill. A level TV is your business card.

VESA Pattern and Weight Rating

Every TV has a VESA mounting pattern — the spacing between the four mounting holes on the back of the TV. Common patterns: 200x200, 400x400, 600x400. Match the mount to the TV's VESA pattern exactly — a mount that does not match cannot be safely used. Every mount has a weight rating — never mount a TV that exceeds the mount's rated capacity. Check both before purchasing a mount for a client or accepting a client's mount for a job.

4

Cable Management — The Finishing Touch

Visible cables hanging from a wall-mounted TV are the single most common client complaint about DIY TV mounting. Professional cable management is your most powerful upsell and your clearest quality differentiator. In-wall cable concealment (running cables through the wall between two wall plates) is the premium option — $75–$125 additional. Surface cable raceway (paintable plastic channel that runs along the wall) is the budget option — $50–$75 additional. Offer both on every job.

TOOLKIT—EVERYTHING YOU NEED

Magnetic stud finder: $35 · Level (48-inch): $25 · Drill with bits: $60–$120 · Socket set (for VESA bolts): $25 · HDMI cables (3ft, 6ft, 10ft): $30 total · Cable management raceways (white + black): $40 · Voltage tester (before drilling near outlets): $20 · Painter's tape (for marking): $5 · Microfiber cloth (for screen): $10 · Business cards (leave one per job): $30. Total: $300–$360. Your first job covers the entire kit.

Premium Upsells — Fireplace Mounts, Cable Concealment, and Full AV

The add-ons that take a $175 job to a $400 job without extra travel.

The average TV mounting job is $175. The average TV mounting job with professional add-ons is $350–$400. Every add-on you offer is delivered at the same job site, on the same visit, to the same client who already trusts you enough to let you drill into their wall. The revenue per visit doubles. The travel and client acquisition cost stays the same. Present every upsell as a natural extension of the work already in progress.

1

Above-Fireplace Mounting — Premium Pricing

TV mounting above a fireplace is the most requested and most technically demanding residential TV mounting job. The challenges: heat from the fireplace (ensure clearance and ventilation), awkward wall height (requires a tilting mount for comfortable viewing angle), and cable management from the height down to the components. Charge $225–$300 for fireplace mounts versus $150–$175 for standard mounts. Every Caribbean homeowner with a fireplace and a TV is a potential fireplace mount client.

2

In-Wall Cable Concealment — Your Premium Cable Option

In-wall cable concealment requires cutting two rectangular holes in the drywall — one behind the TV and one near the component shelf — and running cables through the wall cavity. Install low-voltage mounting brackets in both holes, run the cables, install the wall plates. Result: zero visible cables. This service transforms a standard mount job into a premium renovation-quality installation. Charge $100–$150 additional. One in four clients upgrades when you show them what it looks like finished.

3Soundbar Mounting and Connection

A floating soundbar mounted directly below the TV with cables concealed is the next upgrade Caribbean clients ask for after the TV is mounted. Use a dedicated soundbar wall mount ($20–$40 material cost) positioned 4–6 inches below the TV. Connect via HDMI ARC or optical cable. Conceal the cable in the same raceway as the TV cables. Charge $75–$100 for soundbar mounting and connection. Two in three clients with soundbars say yes when they see the floating combination result.

4Full Living Room AV Setup

After mounting the TV, offer to connect and configure the complete entertainment system: streaming device setup, HDMI switching for multiple sources, soundbar or receiver configuration, and cable management for all components. A full living room AV setup on top of a TV mount job takes 90 additional minutes and charges $150–$200 additional. The complete package — mount, cables, AV setup — is a $350–$450 job that every Caribbean homeowner who loves their entertainment system will book without hesitation.

Finding Clients and Scaling

Caribbean community channels, Nextdoor, TaskRabbit, and the partnership that fills your calendar.

The TV mounting business is built on visibility and trust. When a Caribbean homeowner sees a perfectly mounted television with clean cable management at a friend's or family member's home, they ask immediately who did it. Your job is to do work that generates those conversations — and to be easy to find when people search for you.

1Caribbean Facebook Groups — Post-Christmas Timing

The highest-impact social media post in this business is a before-and-after photo posted in Caribbean community groups the week after Christmas: 'Get that new TV off the floor and on the wall. Professional mounting, cable management, full AV setup. Caribbean families in [city] — DM me for a quote.' This single post, timed correctly, generates 15–30 bookings in January — your highest-volume month of the year.

2TaskRabbit and Thumbtack — Always-On Channels

TaskRabbit and Thumbtack are marketplaces where clients actively search for TV mounting professionals. Set up profiles on both with your strongest before-and-after photos and a clear pricing structure. Respond to every inquiry within 15 minutes — speed of response is the primary conversion factor on both platforms. A TaskRabbit profile with 20+ five-star reviews generates 3–5 bookings per week without any additional marketing effort.

3Caribbean Moving Companies — The Natural Partnership

Caribbean families who move always need their TVs remounted in their new home. A referral partnership with a Caribbean moving company generates 4–8 TV mounting referrals per month from clients who are already motivated, already have their furniture in place, and just need the TVs mounted before they can fully settle in. Offer the moving company $25 per completed referral booking.

4

Apartment Complexes and Property Managers

Property managers who offer move-in concierge services to new tenants sometimes include TV mounting as an amenity. Partner with 2–3 property management companies in Caribbean neighborhoods to be their recommended TV mounting professional for all new tenants. A 100-unit building with 5–8% monthly turnover generates 5–8 potential TV mounting bookings per month from one building relationship.

Commercial Accounts — Hotels, Offices, and Airbnb

Recurring commercial accounts that pay monthly and refer automatically.

Commercial TV mounting accounts are the highest-margin work in this business. A hotel with 40 rooms needs all TVs mounted professionally. An office building with 10 conference rooms needs screens installed and maintained. An Airbnb host with 3 properties needs all TVs mounted and connected to streaming devices that reset between guests. These accounts pay more per TV, require less client communication per unit, and refer sister properties automatically.

1

Hotels and Boutique Properties

A 40-room hotel at $175 per room for professional TV mounting = $7,000 from one engagement. Hotels also need periodic maintenance — TV falling off wall due to guest interference, HDMI cables pulled out, remote controls needing pairing. A hotel maintenance retainer at $200/month covers all TV-related issues and keeps you top of mind when they open new rooms or partner properties. Caribbean-owned boutique hotels are your warmest entry point.

2

Airbnb Hosts — Multi-Property Accounts

Caribbean Airbnb hosts with 2–5 properties need all TVs mounted and connected to streaming devices with guest-mode configurations. A 3-property Airbnb host at $250 per property (mount + streaming device setup) = $750 from one client. Ongoing support: $75/month per property for any TV or streaming issues between guest stays. A portfolio of 5 Airbnb clients generates $375/month in passive support retainer income.

3

Corporate Offices and Conference Rooms

Conference room displays, presentation screens, and digital signage require professional installation that goes beyond standard residential mounting. Charge $250–$400 per commercial screen depending on size and mounting complexity. Add a quarterly maintenance check at $150 per visit. Caribbean-owned businesses — law firms, medical offices, financial advisors — are your warmest corporate prospects and the easiest to reach through your Caribbean professional network.

Account Type	Setup Revenue	Ongoing Revenue	Annual Value
Residential (referral)	$200 avg	None	$200/job
Hotel (40 rooms)	$7,000 one-time	$200/month	$9,400/yr
Airbnb host (3 props)	$750 one-time	$225/month	$3,450/yr
Corporate office	$1,500 avg	$150/quarter	$2,100/yr

Building a TV Mounting Company

Subcontractors, multiple crews, and the business that scales without you.

The TV mounting business scales through subcontractors faster than almost any other Caribbean Earner service. The skill is learnable in one weekend. The tools cost under $400. A second trained installer doubles your daily capacity immediately. At 3 active installers each completing 3 jobs per day at $200 average, your operation generates $1,800/day — $36,000/month — from a business that requires a drill, a level, and a stud finder per crew.

1

Training Your First Subcontractor

Find a physically capable, reliable Caribbean community member who wants consistent work. Train them over two days — day one in theory (studs, VESA, levels, cable management), day two on supervised live jobs. After 5 supervised jobs, assess their work quality. If it meets your standard, send them independently. Pay per job: $60–$80. Your margin per subcontracted job: $100–$120.

2

Quality Control System

Every subcontractor job must be photographed — the mounted TV from the front, the cable management, and a level check photo. Photos are sent to you via WhatsApp before the installer leaves the job. This 3-photo protocol takes 2 minutes and ensures your quality standard is maintained across every crew member. One failed quality control photo gets a same-day correction visit before the client notices.

Building Toward 5 Crews

Five subcontractor crews each completing 3 jobs per day at $200 average revenue generates $3,000/day — $60,000/month — from a TV mounting company. Your role: client acquisition, quality oversight, commercial account management, and subcontractor scheduling. The tools are cheap. The training is fast. The Caribbean community provides an endless supply of motivated, capable people who want reliable work and professional income.

Scale	Installers	Jobs/Day	Daily Revenue	Monthly Revenue
Solo	1	3	$525–$600	$10,500–$12,000
2 crews	2	6	$1,050–$1,200	$21,000–$24,000

3 crews	3	9	$1,575–$1,800	$31,500–$36,000
5 crews	5	15	$2,625–$3,000	$52,500–$60,000
