INCOME BENCHMARKS

$3,000–$5,000/month from one full route · 5 children = $75–$125 per run · recurring monthly income · Caribbean parents pay on time for services they trust

The Business Model and the Money

How the school run works, what it pays, and why Caribbean families are your first clients.

The school run service is one of the most recession-proof, community-trusted businesses a Caribbean professional can build. Caribbean parents who work full-time schedules need reliable, trusted child transport to and from school every weekday. They cannot always guarantee their own availability. They will not trust a stranger. But they will trust a Caribbean professional from their own community — someone they know, whose background they can verify, whose reputation they can check with other parents who use the same service.

$3,000–$5,000

Monthly revenue from one full route · 5 children per run × 2 runs/day × 20 days =
consistent recurring income · Caribbean parents pay reliably for trusted child transport

The Income Math — Simple and Powerful

Charge $15–$25 per child per run. A morning school run with 5 children is $75–$125 for 45–90 minutes of driving. The same 5 children in the afternoon is another $75–$125. Monday to Friday, 4 weeks per month: $3,000–$5,000/month from 5 families. Adding a second route with 5 more children doubles your income without doubling your hours — if you have a trusted second driver.

Route Setup	Children	Per Run	Daily	Monthly
Single run (AM or PM)	5	$100	$100	$2,000
Double run (AM + PM)	5	$100	$200	$4,000
Double route (AM + PM × 2)	10	$100 each	$400	$8,000
3 routes with drivers	15	$100 each	$600	$12,000

Why Caribbean parents choose this service

They know you. They have seen you at church, at community events, at the school gate. They can verify your reputation through mutual contacts. For Caribbean parents who would never put their child in a car with a stranger, the community connection is the product.

Why this business is recession-proof

School does not stop during recessions. Caribbean parents who cut every other household expense do not cut their child's safe transport to school. The school run is a necessity, not a luxury. Churn rate in trusted school run services is among the lowest of any consumer service business.

CARIBBEAN EARNER PRINCIPLE

Dominica — known as the Nature Isle — is one of the most naturally preserved islands in the world because the community understood from the beginning that what is most valuable must be protected most carefully. Caribbean parents feel the same way about their children. When you protect what they value most, they trust you with everything else.

Legal Requirements — What You Must Have Before You Drive a Single Child

Licensing, insurance, background checks, and vehicle requirements.

The school run service requires more legal groundwork than most Caribbean Earner businesses — and that groundwork is your competitive moat. Most informal school run operators skip the background checks, carry inadequate insurance, and have no written service agreement. You do everything correctly from day one. That compliance is what makes Caribbean parents choose you over a neighbor who offers the same service informally.

Driver's License and Vehicle Requirements

A standard driver's license covers transporting children in a personal vehicle in most US states for up to 7–8 passengers. If you carry more than 8 passengers you need a commercial driver's license and different insurance. Start with a 7-passenger SUV or minivan — this covers most route sizes without triggering commercial vehicle requirements. Keep your vehicle clean, well-maintained, and inspected annually.

Background Check — Non-Negotiable

Run a comprehensive background check on yourself through a certified provider (Checkr, Sterling, or your local police department) before you approach your first family. Share the results proactively with every parent before they sign your service agreement. A Caribbean parent who sees a clean, certified background check on paper before signing is a parent who trusts you completely from day one.

Insurance — The Critical Layer

Your personal auto insurance almost certainly excludes commercial child transport. You need a commercial auto policy that specifically covers transporting minors for compensation. Cost: $1,500–$3,500/year depending on your state and vehicle. This is non-negotiable — driving children for pay without commercial coverage is illegal in every state and leaves you personally liable for any accident. Get the coverage before you take your first passenger.

Service Agreement — Protect Everyone

A one-page service agreement signed by every parent covers: pickup and dropoff locations, scheduled times, monthly fee, late payment policy, emergency contact protocol, authorized pickup list, and cancellation terms. The agreement is not about distrust — it is about professionalism. Caribbean parents who sign a proper service agreement feel more confident, not less, about the service they are using for their children.

STATE LICENSING VARIATIONS

Some states require a for-hire vehicle permit or childcare transportation license for paid child transport services. Check your state's Department of Transportation and Department of Education websites before operating. Requirements vary significantly — California, New York, and Florida all have different rules. Budget $50–$200 for any required permits. Operating in compliance is both legally required and a marketing advantage.

Building Trust in the Caribbean Community

Community trust is your strongest competitive advantage and how to establish it fast.

In the Caribbean community, trust is not built through advertising. It is built through personal introduction, verified reputation, and consistent reliable service. The parent who uses your school run service for one month refers two other parents from the same school. Those parents refer two more. A school run business built through Caribbean community trust grows faster through referrals than any paid marketing channel.

Your First Families — Start With People You Know

Your first 3–5 school run families should be people you already know or are one introduction away from. A colleague at your Caribbean church whose child attends the same school as other community children. A neighbor whose schedule conflicts with the school pickup time. A family your own children play with. The first families are your testimonials, your proof of concept, and your referral source — all at once.

The In-Person Introduction

Do not launch your school run service with a Facebook post. Launch it with a personal conversation. Attend a Caribbean school gate gathering, a church event, or a community meeting. Introduce your service in person: 'I am starting a professional school run service for Caribbean families in [area]. I am background checked, insured, and I have capacity for 3 more children on my route. Would you like to see my credentials and talk about your schedule?' One in-person introduction converts at 3–4 times the rate of any social media post.

The Safety Demonstration

Before your first family signs, offer a trial run — a free school pickup with the parent present in the car. They see how you drive, how you interact with the children, how you communicate with the school gate staff, and how you handle the pickup process. A Caribbean parent who rides along on one trial run and sees you in action becomes your most powerful advocate to every other parent they know.

Caribbean School and Church Networks

Contact the Caribbean cultural society or parent group at schools with significant Caribbean enrollment. Offer to present your service at a parent meeting. Church youth coordinators who know Caribbean families across multiple schools can introduce your service to their entire network with one recommendation. One church introduction can fill your route in 2 weeks.

YOUR BUSINESS WEBSITE — PERSONAL NOTE

A professional booking page — showing your services, pricing, service area, and availability — converts clients who find you online into booked jobs without a single cold call. I found it significantly easier to use Lovable — an AI site builder where you describe what you want and it builds a professional site in minutes. No coding required.

Running Your Route — Systems That Keep Families Happy

WhatsApp, communication protocols, and the daily systems that make parents feel safe.

Caribbean parents operate on WhatsApp. A dedicated WhatsApp group for your school run clients — daily confirmation of pickup times, weather updates, any schedule changes — is more trusted and more valued than any app. It is personal. It is direct. It is how Caribbean families communicate. Your WhatsApp group is your customer service, your scheduling system, and your community simultaneously.

The Morning Confirmation Protocol

Send a WhatsApp message to your group every morning at 7:30am: 'Good morning — on my way. Pickup starting at [time]. Weather is [condition]. Any changes please message before 7:45am.' This 15-second message reduces no-shows, eliminates confusion about schedule changes, and makes every parent feel personally attended to. The consistency of this morning message is what parents tell other parents about.

Arrival Confirmation — The Detail That Builds Loyalty

When you deliver each child to school, send a quick WhatsApp to that child's parent: '[Child's name] dropped safely at [school]. Have a great day.' 30 seconds per child. Caribbean parents who work in demanding jobs and cannot check their phones until lunch feel profound relief when they see that message. This single practice generates more referrals than any other aspect of your service.

Emergency Protocol — Every Parent Signs It

Every service agreement includes an emergency contact protocol: who to call if you cannot reach the parent, where to take the child if school is unexpectedly closed, and your procedure for medical emergencies. Review this protocol verbally with every parent before their first pickup. Caribbean parents who see you take emergencies seriously before they happen trust you completely during the rare times they occur.

Route Optimization — Time Is Your Inventory

Map your route before you start. Use Google Maps or Waze to sequence pickups for minimum travel time. A poorly sequenced route of 5 children can take 90 minutes. A well-optimized route takes 45 minutes. Those saved 45 minutes allow you to add a second morning run before school starts — doubling your morning revenue without adding a single minute to your day.

REMOTE OS PRO — RUN YOUR OPERATION

Remote OS Pro manages your daily school run schedules, tracks route optimization across multiple drivers, sends automated parent notifications, manages monthly billing and payment collection, and maintains your client communication log. Growing Your Route and Adding Drivers

From 5 children to 25 children across multiple routes with trusted drivers.

Once your first route is full — 5–8 children consistently — identify a second reliable Caribbean professional in the community who wants to operate their own school run route under your system. You provide the structure, the client relationships, the service agreements, and the reputation. They provide the vehicle, the driving, and the reliability. You take a coordination fee of $200–$400/month from each driver you bring into your network.

Finding Your First Driver

Your second driver should be a Caribbean parent themselves — someone who already does the school run for their own children and has capacity for 3–4 more children on the same route. They understand the schedule, they know the school, and they have the community credibility that comes from being a parent in the same system. Background check them with the same rigor you applied to yourself.

The Driver Agreement

A one-page driver agreement covers: vehicle and insurance requirements, communication standards (must use your WhatsApp protocol), service area, your coordination fee structure, and the client relationship terms (clients belong to your business, not the individual driver). This protects your client relationships if a driver ever leaves your network.

Scaling to Multiple Schools

Each school generates its own community of Caribbean families who need school run services. Once you have one route established at one school, introduce your service to the parent community at a second school through the same personal introduction process. Each school is a new market with a new referral network. Three schools with one route each = 3 drivers, 15 children, $9,000–$15,000/month in total route revenue.

Scale	Routes	Children	Monthly Revenue
Solo — 1 route	1	5–8	$3,000–$5,000
2 routes (1 driver)	2	10–16	$6,000–$10,000

4 routes (3 drivers)	4	20–32	$12,000–$20,000
6 routes (5 drivers)	6	30–48	$18,000–$30,000

Pricing, Contracts, and Recurring Revenue

Monthly agreements and the income that arrives before you start the engine.

School run pricing is monthly, not per-trip. Collect the full month's fee in advance on the 1st of every month. This creates a cash flow rhythm where your income arrives before you begin the month's work — the most favorable cash flow structure in any service business. A family who pays monthly in advance is also far less likely to cancel impulsively than one who pays per trip.

1Monthly Flat Rate — The Right Structure

Charge a flat monthly fee regardless of exact trip count. Base it on the number of school days in the month (typically 18–22 days). A rate of $15–$20 per child per run, twice daily, over 20 school days: $600–$800/month per child. A family with 2 children on your route pays $1,200–$1,600/month. 5 families with 1 child each at $700/month: $3,500/month from one route.

2Late Payment Policy

Include a clear late payment policy in your service agreement: payment due the 1st of every month, $25 late fee after the 5th, service suspension after the 10th if payment is not received. State this clearly and enforce it consistently. Caribbean parents who understand and agree to the policy in advance respect it. One parent who pays late without consequence teaches every other parent that the policy is negotiable. It is not.

3School Holiday Adjustments

Charge a reduced monthly fee for months with school holidays (70% of standard rate for December, 80% for spring break months). This transparency builds trust and reduces the friction of parents questioning the full charge during short months. A parent who sees you pro-rate fairly is a parent who never considers cancelling.

Annual Service Agreement — The Gold Standard

Offer an annual service agreement at a 5% discount from the monthly rate. Collect 3 months in advance as a deposit. Caribbean parents who sign an annual agreement are your most loyal, most reliable, and most referral-active clients. An annual agreement also protects your income during the periods when parents might otherwise cancel due to a temporary schedule change.

CARIBBEAN EARNER PRINCIPLE

Antigua has 365 beaches — one for every day of the year. Your school run business has one route for every school your community attends. Each route is its own income stream, its own referral network, its own community relationship. Build one at a time. Every route you add is a beach you own.

Drive Safely. Build Trust. Create Recurring Income Your Community Depends On.

Every Caribbean parent who works full-time and needs reliable child transport is a potential client. Every Caribbean church with working families is a referral network. Every school with Caribbean children is a new route. The school run business rewards trust, reliability, and community connection — the three things Caribbean professionals bring naturally.
