The Business Case — Why Pressure Washing Pays So Well

Low overhead, high demand, and a Caribbean community that values exterior appearance.

Pressure washing is one of the most straightforward high-income service businesses available. The equipment is affordable. The skill is learnable in a weekend. The demand is year-round. Every home, every driveway, every parking lot, every commercial building in every Caribbean community generates ongoing pressure washing needs — and the visual transformation that pressure washing delivers is the most photographable, most shareable before-and-after in any service industry. One posted photo of a clean driveway next to a dirty one fills your calendar for two weeks.

Why Caribbean Communities Generate Constant Pressure Washing Demand

Caribbean homeowners invest heavily in curb appeal. A dirty driveway, algae-stained siding, or grimy deck is a source of genuine concern for a Caribbean family that takes pride in how their property looks. Caribbean neighborhoods also generate significant commercial pressure washing needs — Caribbean restaurants, Caribbean retail shops, and Caribbean community centers all maintain high exterior standards. Your cultural access to this community is your fastest path to a full calendar.

Low overhead business

A gas pressure washer and basic chemical setup runs $400–$800. No storefront, no inventory, no employees required to start. One machine. One person. Real income from day one.

High demand market

Every surface exposed to weather needs periodic cleaning. Caribbean homeowners book annually or semi-annually minimum. Commercial clients book monthly. The demand never stops.

CARIBBEAN EARNER PRINCIPLE

Barbados is consistently ranked among the most immaculate and well-maintained islands in the Caribbean — a standard set by a community that understands clean surfaces signal pride, care, and value. Every Caribbean homeowner in the diaspora carries that standard. You are the professional who helps them maintain it.

Equipment — What to Buy and What to Skip

Machine selection, surface cleaners, chemical injection, and the trailer setup.

Your equipment investment determines your capability and your income ceiling. Start with what you need for residential work and upgrade to commercial-grade as your revenue justifies it. The most common mistake is either underspending (buying a residential big-box-store machine that breaks after 20 jobs) or overspending (buying a $5,000 rig before your first client).

1Your First Machine — Gas, 3,000–4,000 PSI

Buy a commercial-grade gas pressure washer in the 3,000–4,000 PSI / 4 GPM range from Simpson, Generac, or Mi-T-M. Budget: $400–$700. Avoid electric machines for professional use — they lack the pressure and flow rate for efficient cleaning. A 4 GPM machine cleans 60–70% faster than a 2 GPM machine, which directly translates to more jobs per day and higher daily income.

2Surface Cleaner — Your Driveway Game Changer

A 15–19 inch surface cleaner attachment ($80–$150) connects to your pressure washer and rotates two spray nozzles, cleaning a wide path evenly without streaks. A driveway that takes 45 minutes with a single wand takes 15 minutes with a surface cleaner. Buy this before your first driveway job — it is the single most impactful equipment purchase you will make relative to its cost.

3Downstream Chemical Injection

A downstream injector ($15–$25) allows you to apply chemical cleaning solution through your pressure washer at low pressure — essential for soft washing roofs, siding, and wood surfaces where high pressure would cause damage. Your cleaning chemical: sodium hypochlorite (pool shock, 12.5% concentration) diluted to 1–3% for soft wash applications. Buying pool shock in bulk ($40–$60 for 4 gallons) reduces your chemical cost per job to $3–$8.

4

Transport — Truck or Trailer Setup

Start by transporting your machine in a truck bed with a 35-gallon water tank ($80–$120) for jobs without accessible water. As your client base grows, a flatbed trailer ($400–$600 used) with your machine, water tank, and chemical supply creates a professional mobile setup that handles all job types without relying on client water access. The trailer signals professionalism to every potential client who sees it parked outside a job.

Your Service Menu — Residential and Commercial

Driveways, decks, siding, roofs, commercial lots, and fleet washing.

Pressure washing covers a wide range of surfaces and service categories. Start with the highest-demand residential services and add commercial accounts as your equipment and confidence grow. Each surface type requires different pressure settings and chemical applications — learn them before you offer them.

Service	PSI Setting	Chemical	Avg Time	Notes
Driveway (standard)	3,000 PSI	None/light degreaser	30–60 min	Use surface cleaner
Deck/patio cleaning	1,200–1,500 PSI	Wood cleaner	45–90 min	Never high PSI on wood
House siding (soft wash)	Low pressure	SH solution 1–2%	60–120 min	Soft wash only
Roof soft wash	Ultra low	SH solution 2–3%	90–180 min	Ladder safety critical
Commercial parking lot	3,000 PSI	Degreaser	2–4 hours	Price by sq ft
Fleet washing	1,500 PSI	Vehicle-safe soap	Per vehicle	Route contract ideal

SOFT WASHING — YOUR PREMIUM UPSELL

Soft washing (low pressure + chemical cleaning) is the professional method for roofs, siding, and painted surfaces. High pressure damages these surfaces — soft washing does not. A roof soft wash on a standard Caribbean home: $300–$600. Costs you $20–$40 in chemicals and 90 minutes of time. Every residential driveway client is a soft wash upsell opportunity. Ask at the end of every driveway job: 'Would you like me to soft wash the house siding and roof while I am here?'

Pricing — Per Job and Monthly Route Contracts

How to charge $150–$800 per job and build recurring commercial route income.

Pressure washing pricing is per-job for residential and per-route for commercial. Residential clients pay once or twice per year. Commercial clients pay monthly — and their recurring contracts are the income foundation that makes your business predictable regardless of residential booking fluctuations.

Service	Price Range	Frequency	Notes
Driveway (up to 1,000 sq ft)	$100–$175	Annual / semi-annual	Most common entry job
Driveway + walkways	$150–$250	Annual	Bundle upsell
House siding (soft wash)	$200–$450	Annual	Size dependent
Roof soft wash	$300–$600	Every 2–3 years	High margin
Deck/patio cleaning	$150–$350	Annual / seasonal	Wood type matters
Full exterior package	$500–$900	Annual	Bundle all above
Commercial parking lot	$200–$500	Monthly	Route contract
Restaurant exterior	$150–$300	Monthly / bi-monthly	Grease removal
Fleet washing (per vehicle)	$25–$75	Weekly / bi-weekly	Route contract

Getting Clients — Caribbean Community First, Then Scale

Where to find residential and commercial clients and how to build a full calendar.

Your fastest path to a full calendar is the Caribbean community. Every Caribbean homeowner who cares about curb appeal (which is most of them) is a potential annual residential client. Every Caribbean restaurant, retail shop, and commercial property is a potential monthly commercial account. Start with community, scale to everything else.

1Before-and-After Photos — Post Every Job

The most powerful marketing tool in pressure washing is a before-and-after photo. A driveway that transforms from green-black algae stain to bright clean concrete in 45 minutes generates the most visceral, impulsive booking response of any service business photo. Post before-and-afters in Caribbean community Facebook groups after every job. Include your price and availability: 'Driveway cleaning in [neighborhood] — $125. DM me to book this weekend.'

2Caribbean Neighborhoods — Door Knock With Photos

Print a small flyer with your best before-and-after photos. Knock doors in Caribbean neighborhoods on Saturday mornings: 'Hi, I am building a pressure washing business in this neighborhood. Can I show you a before-and-after of a driveway I cleaned two streets over? I have availability this afternoon for $125.' One in four Caribbean homeowners books on the spot when shown a compelling before-and-after photo.

3Caribbean Restaurants and Retail — Commercial Monthly Accounts

Walk in to every Caribbean restaurant, Caribbean retail shop, and Caribbean community center in your area on a Tuesday morning (not during Friday/Saturday rush). Ask for the owner or manager: 'I offer monthly commercial pressure washing — your exterior, your entrance, your dumpster area. $200/month. I come once a month and keep your exterior looking professional all year.' One in three Caribbean business owners who sees your portfolio says yes.

Scaling to a Multi-Crew Pressure Washing Company

Second machine, second crew, commercial contracts, and no income ceiling.

One pressure washer operated solo generates $3,000–$5,000/month at full capacity. Two machines with trained operators generate $6,000–$10,000/month. Three machines with commercial route accounts generate $12,000–$20,000/month. The pressure washing business scales through equipment and people — not through complex systems or specialized skills.

- 1

Your First Operator — Train and Deploy
Once your monthly revenue exceeds $3,000 consistently, purchase a second machine and train a reliable person to operate it. Pay them $15–$20/hour or 35–40% of each job they complete. You manage sales, scheduling, and quality. They operate equipment. With two machines running simultaneously on Saturdays, your weekend revenue doubles while your personal labor stays the same.
- 2

Commercial Route Contracts — Your Income Floor
Pursue 5–10 commercial monthly contracts: parking lots, restaurant exteriors, retail strip centers, office parks, and HOA common areas. At $300/month per commercial account, 10 accounts = $3,000/month in guaranteed recurring revenue before you schedule a single residential job. Commercial contracts provide the income floor that makes the business recession-resistant.
- 3

Roof Soft Wash Specialization — Your Premium Niche
Roof soft washing is the highest-margin pressure washing service and the one with the least competition — most operators avoid it because of ladder work and chemical handling. A Caribbean professional who masters roof soft washing charges $400–$800 per roof and completes 2–3 roofs per day. Specialize here once your general pressure washing income is stable and add $4,000–$6,000/month to your revenue from this single service addition.

Scale	Machines	Monthly Revenue	Net (55% margin)
Solo — residential focus	1	$3,000–$5,000	$1,650–$2,750

Solo + commercial routes	1	$5,000–$8,000	$2,750–$4,400
2 machines + 1 operator	2	$8,000–$12,000	$4,400–$6,600
3 machines + commercial	3	$15,000–$22,000	$8,250–$12,100

CARIBBEAN EARNER PRINCIPLE

Trinidad and Tobago built a petroleum industry from a small island because the community understood that what sits beneath the surface has value — and that extracting it systematically creates generational wealth. Your pressure washing business works the same way. The value sits in every dirty surface in your community. Your machine extracts it systematically. The income compounds every month you show up.

Every dirty driveway is a booking. Every Caribbean restaurant is a monthly commercial account. Every before-and-after photo you post fills your weekend calendar.
