TRIED AND TESTED

The junk removal industry generates over $10 billion annually in the United States alone. 1-800-GOT-JUNK built a franchise empire on a simple concept — show up, load the truck, and dispose responsibly. The gap they left is the local Caribbean operator who understands their community, charges fair prices, and builds the personal trust that a 1-800 number never can.

CHAPTER ONE

Starting Small — Before the Truck

1 The no-truck start

You do not need a truck to start. A cargo van rental from Home Depot or Enterprise ($60–$80/day) covers most residential jobs. A pickup truck with a flatbed trailer attachment handles medium loads. Start with rentals until the business generates $3,000–$5,000/month consistently, then purchase a used pickup truck or box truck for $8,000–$15,000.

2 Pricing by load size

Small load (1/4 truck): $150–$250 · Medium load (1/2 truck): $250–$400 · Full truck load: $400–$600 · Estate cleanout (multi-day): $800–$2,500 · Construction debris (commercial): $500–$1,500 per load

CHAPTER TWO

Commercial Contracts — Where the Real Money Is

1 The commercial opportunity

Construction companies need regular debris removal. Property management companies need unit cleanouts between tenants. Estate attorneys need full property clearances. One commercial construction debris contract at $500 per load, twice per week, is $4,000–$5,000/month from one client relationship.

2 The Caribbean community commercial angle

Caribbean contractors, Caribbean property managers, and Caribbean estate executors in your city are your warmest commercial leads. They prefer to give business to someone from the community who they trust and who shows up reliably. One Caribbean contractor relationship can provide consistent weekly work that sustains the entire business.

Hiring, Scaling and Building the Hauling Empire

---

Your first hire

One strong reliable worker transforms a one-person weekend business into a scalable operation. Pay $18-$25/hour. Work alongside them for the first 5 jobs. Once trained, send them on straightforward residential jobs while you handle quoting and commercial client development.

The remote operator path

Once you have two workers, two vehicles, and a consistent route, you are running this business remotely — quoting by phone and photos, dispatching workers, collecting payment digitally, growing commercial accounts. This is the direct path to the Caribbean Home Service Remote Business Blueprint.

BUILD YOUR BUSINESS WEBSITE – PERSONAL NOTE

While all the steps in this guide work to get your first clients through community outreach, A booking page for junk removal quotes — where clients upload photos of their items, get an instant price range, and book a pickup — professionalises your business and removes the friction of back-and-forth quoting over the phone. I found it significantly easier to use Lovable — an AI site builder where you describe what you want and it builds a clean professional site in minutes. No coding. Check it out.
